Sample Employee Handbook

Example Company — Training Demonstration Document

Purpose: This fictional handbook is provided only for learning and demonstrating document question-answering with Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG). It is not a real company's policy.

1. Annual Leave Policy

Full-time employees receive 20 days of annual leave per calendar year. Leave must be requested through the HR portal and approved by the employee's manager. Employees should submit planned leave requests in advance whenever possible.

2. Remote Work Policy

Employees may work remotely up to two days per week, subject to manager approval and business requirements. Employees must protect company information when working outside the office and use approved company systems.

3. IT Support Policy

Employees should contact the IT service desk to request laptop support, software installation, or help with approved company applications. Employees should include a clear description of the issue and any relevant error message.

4. Information Security Policy

Employees must report suspected security incidents to the IT security team immediately. Do not share passwords, access tokens, or multi-factor authentication codes with other people. Use only approved tools to store or transmit company information.

5. Expense Reimbursement Policy

Employees must submit business expense claims through the company expense portal. Claims should include an itemized receipt, the business purpose, and the date of the expense. Manager approval is required before reimbursement can be processed.

6. Learning and Development Policy

Employees may request approval to attend job-related training courses. Requests should describe the course, expected cost, and how the training supports the employee's role. Approval depends on the manager and the available learning budget.
